A MOTHER'S GIFT.

Lines written by a mother, in a Bible—her gift to her son.

Remember, love, who gave thee this,
When other days shall come—
When she who had thy earliest kiss,
Sleeps in her narrow home.
Remember, 'twas a mother gave
The gift to one she'd die to save.

That mother sought a pledge of love,
The holiest for her son;
And from the gift of God above
She chose a goodly one;
She chose for her beloved boy
The source of life, and light, and joy.

And bade him keep the gift—that when
The parting hour should come,
They might have hope to meet again,
In her eternal home.
She said his faith in that would be
Sweet incense to her memory.

And should the scoffer in his pride,
Laugh that fond gift to scorn,
And bid him cast that pledge aside,
That he from youth had borne!
She bade him pause and ask his breast,
If he, or she, had loved him best?

A parent's blessing on her son
Goes with this holy thing;
The love that would retain the one,
Must to the other cling.
Remember, 'tis no idle toy;
A mother's gift—REMEMBER, BOY!

Agamemnon's Trip—Thrilling Narrative.

The London Times, just received per 'Ariel,' contains a most intensely interesting account of the Agamemnon's voyage, from the time she parted from the Niagara until she reached Valentia Bay. We extract a few passages of exceeding interest:

A WHALE, AND CAUSE OF FORMER FAILURE.—After having left the Niagara a few hours, and shortly after 6 o'clock, a very large whale was seen approaching the star-board bow at a great speed, rolling and tossing the sea into foam all round, and for the first time we felt the possibility of the supposition that our second mysterious breakage of the cable might have been caused after all by one of these animals getting foul of it under water. It appeared as if it were making direct for the cable, and great was the relief of all when the ponderous living mass was seen slowly to pass astern, just grazing the cable where it entered the water; but fortunately without doing any mischief.

PANIC ABOARD.—The next day to the consternation of all, the electrical tests applied showed the fault to be overboard, and in all probability some 50 miles from the ship. Not a second was to be lost, for it was evident that the cut portion must be paid overboard in a few minutes, and in the meantime the tedious and difficult operation of making a splice had to be performed. The ship was immediately stopped, and no more cable paid out than was absolutely necessary to prevent breaking. As the stern of the ship was lifted by the waves a scene of the most intense excitement followed. It seemed impossible even by using the greatest possible speed, and paying out the least possible amount of cable, that the junction could be finished before the part was taken out of the hands of the workmen.

EXTRAORDINARY SCENE.—The main hold presented an extraordinary scene; nearly all the officers of the ship and those connected with the expedition stood in groupes about the coil, watching with intense anxiety the cable, as it slowly unwound itself nearer the joint, while the workmen, directed by Mr. Canning, under whose superintendance the cable was originally manufactured, worked at the splice as only men could work who felt that the life and death of the expedition depended upon their rapidity.

But all their speed was to no purpose, as the cable was unwinding within a hundred fathoms, and as a last and desperate resource, the cable was stopped altogether, and for a few minutes the ship hung on by the end. Fortunately, however, it was only for a few minutes, as the strain was continually rising above two tons, and it would not hold on much longer; when the splice was finished, the signal was made to loose the stopper, and it passed overboard safely enough.

When the excitement consequent upon having so narrowly saved the cable had passed away, we awoke to the consciousness that the case was still as hopeless as ever, for the electrical continuity was still entirely wanting. Preparations were consequently made to pay out as little rope as possible, and to hold on for six hours, in the hopes that the fault, whatever it might be, might mend itself before cutting the cable and returning to the rendezvous to make another splice. The magnetic needles on the receiving instruments were watched closely for the returning signals, when in a few minutes the last hope was extinguished by their suddenly indicating dead earth, which tended to show that the cable had been broken from the Niagara, or that the insulation had been completely destroyed.

ALL WELL AGAIN.—In three minutes, however, every one was agreeably surprised by the intelligence that the stoppage had disappeared, and that their signals had again appeared at their regular intervals from the Niagara. It is needless to say what a load of anxiety this news removed from the minds of every one, but the general confidence in the ultimate success of the operations was much shaken by the occurrence, for all felt that every minute a similar accident might occur. For some time the paying out continued as usual, but towards the morning another damaged place was discovered in the cable; there was fortunately, however, time to repair it in the hold without in any way interfering with the operators beyond for a time slightly reducing the speed of the ship.

FIRST SAIL.—Stupidity.—During the afternoon of Monday, after half the voyage had been accomplished, an American three-masted schooner, which afterwards proved to be the Chieftan, was seen standing from the Eastward towards us. No notice was taken of her at first, but when she was within about half a mile of the Agamemnon she altered her course, and bore right down across our bows. A collision, which might prove fatal to the cable, now seemed inevitable, or could only be avoided by the equally hazardous expedient of altering the Agamemnon's course. The Valorous steamed ahead, and fired a gun for her to heave to, which, as she did not appear to take much notice of, was quickly followed by another from the bows of the Agamemnon, and a second and third from the Valorous; but still the vessel held on her course, and as the only resource left to avoid a collision, the course of the Agamemnon was altered just in time to pass within a few yards of her. It was evident that our proceedings were the source of the greatest possible astonishment to them, for all her crew crowded upon her deck and rigging. At length they evidently discovered who we were, and what we were doing, for the crew manned the rigging, and dipping the ensign several times, they gave us three hearty cheers. Though the Agamemnon was obliged to acknowledge these congratulations in due form, the feeling of annoyance with which we regarded the vessel which, either by the stupidity or carelessness of those on board, was so near adding a fatal and unexpected mishap to the long chapter of accidents which had already been encountered, may easily be imagined.

EFFECT OF THE GUNS.—To those below, who, of course, did not see the ship approaching, the sound of the first gun came like a thunder bolt, for all took it as the signal of the breaking of the cable.—The dinner tables were deserted in a moment, and a general rush was made for the hatches and up on deck, but before reaching it their fears were quickly banished by the report of the succeeding gun, which all knew well could only be caused by a ship in our way or a man overboard.

ANOTHER AMERICAN VESSEL.—The weather during Monday night moderated a little, but still there was a very heavy sea on, which endangered the wire every minute. About 3 o'clock on Tuesday morning all on board were startled by the loud booming of a gun. Every one without waiting for the performance of the most particular toilet, rushed on deck to ascertain the cause of the disturbance. Contrary to all expectation the cable was safe, but just in the grey light could be seen the Valorous rounded to in the most warlike attitude, firing gun after gun in quick succession towards a large American bark, which, quite unconscious of our proceeding, was standing right across our stern. Such loud and repeated remonstrances from a large steam frigate were not to be despised, and evidently without knowing why or the wherefore, she quickly threw her sails aback and remained hove to.—Whether those on board her considered that we were engaged in some Fillibustering expedition, or regarded our proceedings as another British outrage upon the American flag, it is impossible to say, but certain it is that, apparently in great trepidation, she remained hove to until we had lost sight of her in the distance.

LAND AHEAD.—By daylight on the morning of Thursday the bold and rocky mountains which entirely surround the wild and picturesque neighborhood of Valentia rose right before us at a few miles' distance. Never, probably, was the sight of land more welcome, as it brought to a successful termination one of the greatest, but, at the same time, most difficult schemes which was ever undertaken. Had it been the dullest and most melancholy swamp on the face of the earth that lay before us, we should have found it a pleasant prospect; but, as the sun rose from the estuary of Dingle Bay, tinging with a deep soft purple the lofty summits of the steep mountains which surround its shores, and illuminating the masses of morning vapor which hung upon them, it was a scene which might vie in beauty with anything that could be produced by the most florid imagination of an artist. No one on shore was apparently conscious of our approach, so the Valorous steamed ahead to the mouth of the harbor and fired a gun. Both ships made straight for Dowlas Bay, and about six o'clock came to anchor at the side of Beginish Island, opposite to Valentia.

LANDING THE SHORE END.—Immediately after the ships cast anchor, the paddlebox boats of the Valorous were got ready, and two miles of cable coiled away in them, for the purpose of landing the end; but it was late in the afternoon before the procession of boats left the ship, under a salute of three rounds of small arms from the detachment of Marines on board the Agamemnon, under the command of Lieutenant Morris. The progress of the end to the shore was very slow, in consequence of the very stiff wind which blew at the time, but at about three o'clock the end was safely brought on shore at Knightstown, Valentia, by Mr. Bright and Mr. Canning, the chief and second engineers, to whose exertions the success of the undertaking is attributable, and the Knight of Kerry.

FIRST MESSAGE THROUGH.—The end was immediately laid in the trench which had been dug to receive it, while a Royal salute, making the neighboring rocks and mountains reverberate, announced that the communication between the Old and New World had been completed. The end was immediately taken into the electrical room by Mr. Whitehouse, and attached to a galvanometer, and the first message was received through the entire length.

A Thundering Lie.

Davidson College, North Carolina, contributes a very good story of a man with a very bad habit. As it is all about lying, the reader may believe it or not, as he likes.

In the old North State lives a certain John Long, who draws a long bow whenever he has anything to tell, and his character for truth and veracity, has been below zero for many years. Captain Johnson had been so taken in by one of John's outrageous stories, that he said to him, in a pet;

'If you make me believe one of your lies again in a month, I'll give you fifty dollars!'

John pretended to be hurt by the offer, and went off. A few days after he was riding by the captain's post-haste, on horseback, when the captain called out to him:

'I say! hello, Johnny! stop and tell us a lie or two this morning!'

John rode on, but cried out most dolefully: 'No time for lying now: brother Jimmy has just been killed in the machine, and I'm going for the old folks." On he went.

Captain Johson ordered his horse, and rode over to see the dead man, and offer his services, but found him alive and well, gining cotton, and in no danger of the machine. Just then John rode up and demanded the fifty dollars. The captain declaired it was a rascally trick, but he would have had to pay the money if John had not let him off.

JOHN SMITH.—John Smith is a sort of omnipresence. A learned scholar contends for the universality of John Smith's name, not only in our own, but among all lands. Commencing with the Hebrews, he says they had no Christian names, and consequently Johns—in Hebrew the name was simply Shemt or Shemit. In other nations, however, the John Smith is found full, one and undivided. Let us trace it.

Latin—Johannes Smithini.
Italian—Giovanni Smithi.
Spanish—Juan Smithas.
Dutch—Hans Schmidt.
French—Jean Smeets.
Greek—Ion Skmitton.
Russian—Ionloff Schmittowski.
Polish—Ivan Schmittiweiski.
Chinese—Tohn Tchmmit.
Icelandic—Tahne Smittson.
Welch—Jiohn Schmidd.
Tuscarora—Ton-ta Smittia.
Mexican—Jontli F'Smitix.

To prove the antiquity of the name, the same savan observes, that in the temple of Osiris, Egypt, was found the name of "Pharaoh Smithonis, being the 9th in the 18th dynasty of the Thebian kings. He was the founder of the celebrated temple of Smithopolis Magna."

FORGETTING MISFORTUNE.—Tim McGowan, a gallant fellow, lost his life in the Mexican war. He had lost an arm when a boy, by having the limb crushed under the wheel of a jaunting car, in the 'ould country.' His surviving brother, Dennis, never ceases boasting of Tim's exploits.—In a Moyamensing bar-room, the other evening, Dennis began on the old theme of the Mexican war, dwelling with particular emphasis on the heroic deeds of his deceased relative.

"Och, murther, but ye ought to have seen Tim at Rye-sack-a-dollar-pole-me, (meaning Resaca de la Palma.) He caught two Mexican black-guards by the cuffs of the necks, and kilt them both as dead as herrins by knocking their heads together."

"How could that be," said a listener, "when your brother had but one arm?"

"Bliss yer sowl," answered Dennis, "one arm had he? That's true enough for ye; but then, ye see, Tim forgot all about that whin he got into a fight."

A Rat in the Cars.

A day or two since, says the Hartford Times, just after the express train left Stamford, where it had been delayed a few minutes, to wood and water, a rat ran from one corner of the car, amidst the feet of the passengers. As soon as it was known that there was a rat on the floor of the car, considerable excitement took place amongst the ladies, and crinoline took a sudden rise. The passengers struck at the rat as he dodged from one side of the car to the other, with their umbrellas and canes, but without any effect—the old rat successfully avoided all their kicks and thrusts, and disappeared under the seat of a fat woman, who sat at one end of the car, half asleep. A committee of one, self appointed, backed up by half a dozen full grown boys, suggested to the fat lady the propriety of rising, to enable them to find the rat.

Now, it is no easy matter for a two hundred and fifty pounder, encumbered by a huge mass of crinoline, to rise at a moment's notice; therefore, she declined.—She was duly informed of the state of affairs, and of the critical position she occupied in the eyes of the public at that moment. Again, she was requested to rise, but she positively refused—like certain distinguished politicians, she seemed determined to maintain her position, till a broader and more comprehensive platform was available. Various suggestions as to the rat's whereabouts were made by 'the boys,' in audible whispers, which made the fat woman and to get her eyes open. Many of the gassengers seemed to have an idea of their own, which was quite amusing—lips were compressed—cheeks expanded—teeth, worth from twenty-five dollars to untold fortunes, were exhibited—

"Blush like a full-grown rose."

"There was a silence deep as death,
And the boldest held his breath
For a time."

But that time was decidedly short, for at this point, the lady in question gave a roll, which made the car fairly groan, one or two spasmodic kicks, and the two hundred and fifty pounds shot out of her seat like a skyrocket, upsetting babies and bandboxes, crushing crinoline and beavers, landing about six feet from her seat, upon a little old man, whom she nearly smothered, besides knocking off his wig and otherwise disarranging his toilet—upon which he remarked to himself that she had better 'simmer down' and join the circus. After vigorously shaking her dress, amidst the laughter of the passengers, she regained her seat, and the huge mass of crinoline commenced to settle to its proper place, and quiet was restored, when one of 'the boys,' whose mirthfulness must be somewhat largely developed, burst out into a 'horse laugh.' The effect was like a spark in a magazine; the whole car exploded, and the fat woman joined in and laughed as hearty as the merriest. Her jolly old sides shook up and down and the car springs vibrated, keeping exact time. But what became of the rat is a question.

☞ The Knickerbocker thus touches the kind of beings that spoil very respectable women, in idle efforts to be very ordinary men: 'There were some 'strong minded women' speakers at a recent New England reform convention; one, especially, being a perfect brickess. She was very plain spoken; and she 'aired her mind' fully—what there was of it. She manifested no little contempt for the male gender; and not a little reminded us of a scene which was once witnessed in the old Park Theatre. The play for the evening was that lugubrious pocket-handkerchief piece, 'The Stranger.' Directly before us sat an elderly married couple. The gentleman, a narrow-shouldered, high-arced, long-nosed specimen, 'most meek of his visage;' the dame, a very plump lady, with head erect, cheeks glowing, and eyes wandering, beneath an exalted turban, and above a ponderous 'bust,' which almost threatened escapement. The man was much moved at the distresses of Mr. and Mrs. Haller. Tears trickled down his long nose and white pinched nostrils; and ever and anon he would jog Madame, that she might assist his melancholly enjoyment of the scene with her own sad sympathy. But not so; she told him several times to 'Hush!' and at length responded to an appreciate 'punch' from the elbow of her lesser half: 'Do stop! If I'd a known you was goin' to act in this way, I wouldn't ha' fetched you!' He smothered his reflected sorrow, and 'dried up' instanter.'

☞ At a Virginia prayer-meeting, the chorister being absent, the elder presiding, whose name was Jeeter, called upon one of the deacons and said, after reading a hymn,

"Brother Moon
Will you raise a tune?"

The deacon lifted up his voice, but instead of singing a once, he inquired,

"Brother Jeeter,
What's the metre?"

This being satisfactorily answered, Deacon Moon pitched the tune.

A Trade A Fortune.

If parents would consider the welfare and happiness of their children they would choose the virtuous mechanic, farmer, or honest trader, as companions and helpmates instead of the rich, who, aside from their income, have no means of subsistence.

How often does this question arise and from religious parents, too, in choosing companions and suitors for their daughters:

'Is he rich?'

If the daughter answers, 'Yes, he is rich, he is a gentleman, neat in his dress, and can live without work,' the parents are pleased.

Not many years ago a Polish lady, of plebian birth, but exceeding beauty and accomplishments, won the affections of a young nobleman, who, having her consent, solicited her from her father in marriage, and was refused. We may easily imagine the surprise of the nobleman.

'Am I not,' said he, 'of sufficient rank to aspire to your daughter's hand?'

'You are undoubtedly of the best blood of Poland.'

'And my fortune and reputation are they not—'

'Your estate is magnificent, and your conduct irreproachable.'

'Then having your daughter's consent how should I expect a refusal?'

'This, sir,' the father replied, 'is my only child, and her happiness is the chief concern of my life. All possessions of fortune are precarious: what fortune gives at her caprice she takes away. I see no security for the independence and comfortable living for a wife but one; in a word, I am resolved that no one shall be the husband of my daughter, who is not at the same time master of a trade!'

The nobleman bowed and retired silently. A year or two after, the father was sitting at the door and saw approaching the house wagons laden with baskets, and at the head of the cavalcade a person in the dress of a basket maker. And who do you suppose it was? The former suitor of his daughter: the nobleman had turned basket maker. He was master of a trade, and brought the wares made by his own hands for inspection, with a certificate from his employer in testimony of his skill.

The conditions being fulfilled, no further obstacle was opposed to the marriage. But the story is not yet done. The Revolution came; fortunes were plundered and lords were scattered as chaff before the four winds of heaven. Kings became beggars, some of them teachers: and the noble Pole supported his wife and her father in the infirmities of age by his basket making industry.

☞ 'Mr. Showman, what is that?'

'That, my dear, is the rhynocery. He is cousin German, or Dutch relation to the unicorn. He was born in desert of Sary Ann, and fed on bamboo and missionaries. He is very courageous, and never leaves home unless he moves, in which case he goes somewhere else, unless he is overtaken by the dark. He was brought to this country much against his will, which accounts for his low spirits when he's melancholy or dejected. He is now somewhat aged, but he has seen the day when he was the youngest specimen of animated nature in the world. Pass on, my little dear, and allow the ladies to survey the wonders of creation as displayed in the ring-tailed monkey, a haminal that can stand hanging like a fellow critter, only it's reversed."

REPORTORIAL FEAT.—At Toledo, Ohio, on the Fourth, an Irish reporter, specially engaged to report the oration, took down the Declaration of independence, as it was read instead. When the reading commenced the reporter began likewise to ply his pencil vigorously under the impression that it was the 'greatest oration, by jingo, that he had ever heard,' became exceedingly anxious to report it fully. Sweat poured from his brow like rain; 'the sentences were very long, be jabers, if it was a good oration, he thought, but still the pencil jumped, and more rapidly the brow shed its rain on the 'quil tracks" on the paper. When he wrote it off from the notes, it was so highly embellished that the editor scarcely recognized it, till he came to the 'names of the signers,' reported as the 'committee of arrangments."

'Tom,' said an impudent wag to a conceited fop, 'I know a beautiful girl who wishes to make your acquaintance.'

'Devilish glad to hear it—delightful and beautiful appearance, I suppose eh?'

'Yes, very much so. She thinks you'd make a capital playmate for her pretty little poodle dog!'

Exit fop, shockingly sold.

☞ A fop of a fellow who was sauntering about a country village, saw a pretty face at the window of a house near which a little boy was at play. 'Bub,' said he, 'who is that fair lady looking out?'—'Sis,' was the laconic reply. 'Will you tell me if she is a maid or a matron?' asked the exquisite. 'She's a tailoress,' answered the lad resuming his play.

CONGRESSIONAL CONFERENCE.—The Union Congressional Conferrees of the district composed of Huntingdon, Blair, Cambria and Somerset counties, met at Johnstown, yesterday, and, on the 25th ballot, nominated S. S. Blair, Esq., of this county. We have no time to say more in reference to the affair to-day.

American Conferees were present from Cambria, Blair and Huntingdon counties, who organized at the Foster House and proceeded to make a nomination, but who their choice fell upon we have not been informed.

Incendiarism on Staten Island.

Simultaneous with the great pomp, ceremony and enthusiasm, in New York City, in honor of the triumph of science and its anticipated results on civilization and christianity—the successful laying of the Atlantic Telegraph—their neighbors on Staten Island were destroying and burning the Quarantine and all private buildings of persons connected with it. The facts of the case appear to be these:—The citizens of Staten Island have been for a considerable length of time endeavoring to obtain the removal of the Quarantine from the Island, and to this end have secured an act of the Legislature authorizing its removal. Subsequently it was indicted by the Grand Jury. Still there was no action taken towards its removal. This insenced the inhabitants living in the immediate vicinity, but nothing of a riotous or improper character was attempted until the recent appearance of the yellow fever. Men who were supposed to be reeking with the virus of small pox and yellow fever were let out to attend political meetings and the latter disease presently broke out.

A number of persons now got together and framed a set of resolutions which were posted up conspicuously declaring the Quarantine a nuisance too intolerable to be borne and calling on the citizens of Richmond county to protect themselves by abating it without delay.

These resolutions were posted throughout the Island, and on Wednesday evening a large concourse of the residents of Staten Island from all quarters, assembled at Fort Hill, one of the forts thrown up by the Hessians during the Revolution. The resolutions were submitted to the meeting, carefully read, and they were then asked if they would or would not support the Board of Health. The result was that a procession was formed and proceeded to the quarantine grounds, where the work of destruction commenced. From the statements of both sides, which the Herald publishes, we learn that a breach was made in the wall after the ineffectual attempts of the firemen to gain admittance. When they did so, not a drop of water was thrown on the burning mass, but was permitted to be destroyed; they, however, using their endeavors to save and protect the sick. The scene, however, as described, must have been really heart-rending. Sick, maimed and enfeebled people of all countries, unable to leave their beds, and enfeebled, too, by the influence of a Sothern clime, huddled as they were, and borne without notice into the cold atmosphere and the frightful glare of the lurid conflagration. They were cared for as well as they possibly could be; the non-infectious patients were promptly sent to Randall's Island, whilst the yellow fever, small-pox, and other cases were accomodated in the only building left standing, which was formerly used as a jail, and stands near the entrance of the Quarantine gate. All the other buildings are razed to the ground, and the only private residences left standing are Mr. Lucke's, Dr. Waser's and the gardener's. Dr. Thompson's residence presents really a melancholy sight. Of this once beautiful house nothing now remains but the shattered walls.

New Bank Action at Philadelphia.

We mentioned a few days ago that the Philadelphia Banks had resolved on the 1st of September to send all the notes of country banks home for redemption, which would not keep their notes at par in Philadelphia. We learn from yesterday's Ledger that this policy was inaugurated at the time mentioned. The notes of all the interior banks are now received there on deposit, as it is considered much cheaper for them to turn their uncurrent into coin there, than to be at the risk and expense of sending it home, or of suffering a shave in putting it on the community again. The Farmers and Mechanics' Bank has become the agent of all the city banks, and for the fixed charge of ¼ per cent., to be borne in proportion to the amount received by each, takes upon itself the risk and expense of converting them into specie or its equivalent, at the respective points of issue.

A double advantage, continues the Ledger, will result from the working of this new order of things. Those who have suffered loss by being compelled from circumstances to take depreciated money at par, will be relieved from that onerous and unjust tax, and the banks sending depreciated currency here for the profit derived from a paper circulation far from home, will be restricted in their operations, the resolution here to return it home in large sums affording them no profit. The field here will also be left freer for the well known bills of our own banks, thus lessening the risk of loss from unknown and fraudulent bank notes. We have no doubt that the system will work well for all parties, except, perhaps, the interior banks and their agents here in keeping the notes as steadily in circulation as possible.—The currency will be very effectually purged, and the users of paper money profited and protected. The interior bank that may show restiveness and opposition under the new order of things, will only the more effectually undo itself in credit with the public, thereby proving the necessity of abridging its circulation to the nearest home demand.

SICKLE RIOT.—Kilkenny, in Ireland, has lately been the scene of riots among the harvest laborers who are indignant at the introduction of agricultural machines. On a late Sunday over 4,000 persons armed with reaping hooks, congregated in the city of Kilkenny shouting and yelling, and fears were had that they would sack the city. On Monday morning the rioters again appeared in great force and resolved to destroy all the agricultural machinery in the country. The rioters marched out of the city and about two miles from town commenced the destruction of reaping machines wherever found. Thus far they met with no check from police or others. A Scotch farmer, however, attempted to defend his machine was severely beaten and would have been killed had it not been for the courage of his daughter who stood over his prostrate body and defended him with a pitchfork. The magistrates of the city seem to have been paralized and the rioters had possession of the city and country around for nearly a week. In one instance they went into a farmers field and reaped his grain and then demanded pay for their labor. Finally the government troops were sent for and order was restored.

CONFINED DEAD IN DWELLING-HOUSES.—In point of fact, the corpse is burired in China, when it is laid in its coffin. The coffin is made of very thick heavy timber, and the joints are all carefully closed by pasting layers of paper over them, so as to make them perfectly air tight. For greater security a little lime is generally put in with the corpse. In this way it is possible to keep the confined corpse in the house for years, without any unpleasant consequences. The practice, indeed, is not uncommon. Some have not the means at hand for burrying in such style as they would wish. They must wait for better days. Some do not find a place to suit them. Thus it sometimes happens, that on entering a Chinese gentleman's house, a coffin is one the most prominent objects seen among the articles of furniture.

Terrible Accident on the Allegheny valley Railroad.

We copy the following account of the late disaster on the above named Railroad from the Pittsburg Chronicle. of Thursday last:—

One of the most serious accidents which it has ever been our province to record occurred last evening on the Allegheny Valley Railroad, about two miles beyond Hulton Station, and fourteen from the city. It appears that as the Camp Meeting at Tarentum was about breaking up to-day, a number of those attending it concluded to return nome last evening, and when the express train, due here at eight o'clock, came along, an extra car filled with passengers was attached to it. The train then proceeded on its way, but when within some two miles of Hulton, and while running along the edge of a steep declivity, the brake bar broke, and one of the detashed ends falling on the track, caught against the cross ties, throwing the car off the track and down the embankment, a distance of nearly forty feet The accident was discovered almost immediately by the conductor, who gave the signal for stopping the train, and had it backed to the scene of the disaster. What followed beggars description. The ill-fated car had been shattered to fragments on the rocks, and of the fifty or sixty ladies and gentlemen who occupied it, some thirty lay scattered at the base of the embankment, more or less injured and groaning with pain, while those who were fortunate enough to escape without injury, crawled from beneath the wreck, and running wildly about, filled the air with their shrieks and lamentations.

It was quite dark when the accident occurred, and as soon as possible lamps were lit and assistance rendered the sufferers. An examination of the wreck showed the disaster to have been far more extensive than was antic p ted. About twenty feet from the track the body of Miss Kincaid, daughter of Mr J. T. Kincaid, tinner, of the First Ward, was found, with life extinct, and her afflicted father endeavoring to collect the brains of his child, which were scattered in every direction. Mr. K. has been singularly unfortunate. But a few month since his son, a fine young man, lost his life while nobly discharging his duty at a fire on Fourth street, and now his daughter, a beautiful girl just entering on womanhood, has been taken from him by sudden and violent death. The unfortunate lady's body was shockingly mutilated, and her father, who was in the car with her at the time, was considerably injured.—Lower down the embankment some twenty-five others were found, more or less hurt, but, with one or two exceptions, none of them very seriously. The body of Miss Kincaid was placed in the baggage car, and the wounded having been all taken on board, the train started for the city, and reached the station in the Ninth ward about nine o'clock.

Intelligence of the accident soon spread thro' the city, and the excitement which followed was most intense. Hundreds who had relatives or friends attending the camp meeting rushed to the depot, and for some minutes nothing but eager inquiries as to how many were killed, who was hurt, &c., was heard. As soon as the confusion incident to such a scene had subsided, conveyances were procured, and the injured parties taken to their homes. The body of Miss Kincaid remained at the depot for some time, and the coroner reaching the ground soon afterwards, an inquest was held.

Below we give the names of those injured by the accident; Mr. and Mrs. Mair, of Allegeny, pretty severly injured, and were taken home in a carriage. Rev. Wm. Lynch and wife were badly bruised. Edward Heazelton, of this city, slightly injured. Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. Kauffman, of the city, also slightly injured. Miss. Lousia Wilson, of the city, had her face badly cut. Jos. Rocksby, of the city severly cut about the face and head. Peter Shots, of Allegheny, was slightly bruised. J. N. McCleary, and wife, of the Sixth ward, severly injured; Dr. John Perchment, slightly injured in the spine; Miss E. Wright Sixth ward, slightly injured; Mrs. Thompson and two children, slightly bruised; Miss Holmes, of Allegheny, slightly hurt; Robt Donaldson, wife and son, slightly bruised; Jno. Colwell, and wife slightly injured. Some six or eight others were more or less injured, but as their wounds are not of a dangerous character we deem it useless to give their names.

It is gratifying to know that the accident was one of these occurrences which human foresight could scarcely have prevented, and that it cannot therefore be attributed to any want of attention or carelessness on the part of the officers of the train.

Border Warfare Between Two States.

We copy from the Ducktown Eagle, of Aug. 10, the following letter from the Sheriff of Polk County, Tennessee, giving an account of a small war which seems to be raging between a portion of the people along the borders of the two States of North Carolina and Tennessee. The letter says: Some time in 1855 a difficulty occurred between some North Carolinians and Tennesseeians, living near the State line. Shortly after, one of the North Carolinians was arrested on the Tennessee side, who knocked the officer down with a stick, and then made his escape.

Hostile encounters would occasionally take place. At length, in 1857, some four or five men from North Carolina made an assault on a man from the Tennessee side, cutting and stabing him severly with knives. For some time after all appeared quiet, when, in the month of June last, early one morning, some men from North Carolina came over to Tennessee, went to the house of a gentleman, and attempted to beat him with sticks; he fled, was pursued to a neighboring house, when a general fight ensued: the Tennesseeans, overpowered by numbers, were badly beaten. This excited the whole neighborhood, and as collisions still took place, and as fighting appeared to be the order of the day, the citizens of both States decided on a pitched battle.

Saturday, 31st July, was the day appointed for the contest, and they were to meet on the Tennessee side to fight. The day arrived. Thirty men on the Tennessee side made their appearance at the place appointed, with rifles, muskets, pistols, &c. Night came and still not a Carolinian was to be seen—only a spy or two at a distance. The Tennessee boys got impatient, and unlawfully slipped over the line, found one of the men they wanted, took him out of bed, and started with him for Tennessee, Some of his friends rushed to the rescue, and a general battle took place. No one was killed.—One had his thumb shot off, another shot in the hand, and another slightly wounded in the head, whilst several were badly wounded by sticks and rocks. The excitement among the people became furious. The North Carolinians organized a company to invade the Tennessee frontiers, and Monday night, the 2d of August, was set apart for the attack. About twenty-five Tennesseeans, in self-defense, assembled to receive them. The deputy sheriff getting notice of the anticipated fray, with a sufficient number of men, prepared to arrest the hostile proceedings.—Night came on. Occasionally spies were seen lurking around, at whom the Tennesseeans would fire their rifles. About 2 o'clock, while most of the Sheriff's company were sleeping in a house, an alarm was raised by sentinel's outside, who fired their guns and the enemy, which was advancing wheeled and fled. No arrests were made. There is a bitter feeling, and some fatal consequences will yet ensue, unless the strong arm of the law succeeds in arresting the affair.

Execution in Iowa.

A correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial gives a horrible account of the execution of William Hinkle at Orleans, Iowa, for the murder of his wife, from which we extract the following: "After the religious exercises were finished, and the reading of a statement in which he asserted his innocence, he walked forward and stood upon the trap door, manifesting no trepidation or emotion—he appeared tranquil and resigned: The rope was fastfened to the beam, a white cloth was tied over his face—all is now adjusted. The sheriff bids him a final farewell. There is not a sound in the vast assemblage. Slowly the sheriff retired to the back end of the platform. The prisoner stands without a motion. The sheriff strikes the fatal blow, cuts the rope, the trap door falls, but alas for the unfortunat man, the rope breaks, and he is precipitated forward upon his face. One terrible shriek of horror went up from the vast throng; many fainted; one of the guard fell in a fainting fit from his horse. The unhappy man lay for a few moments motionless and sensless, the blood streaming from his nose and nostrils. He then groaned and struggled, and was soon restored to conciousness. Again he was carried upon the platform and upon the trap door, supported, staggering and bleeding, a terrible sight. Again the fatal rope was adjusted, when the sheriff asked him, "Do you still adhere to your statement of your innocence?" In a clear, audible voice, he answered, 'I do.' The only words he spoke after his fall. He was unable to stand this time upon the trap door, and was supported. When the rope was cut the door fell, and he was suspended between heaven and earth.

☞ It is very consoling, when you are dispirited, or distressed, or afflicted, to have a friend come in just when you are at the crisis, and assure you that he had been in the same condition, only fives times as bad. A pleasurer to Lake Superior writes back to the Cleveland Review an account of his voyage, during which he was excessively sea sick. Just as his "liver was coming up" he was consoled as follows:

Englishman—You're sick, hay?

Felix—(with a look of agony that would have transfixed an ordinary man)—Yes, I am slightly indisposed.

E.—Sea sickness is werry hunpleasant.

F.—Tolerably, (a hoo-o!)

E.—Hi was sick meself onct, hon my way 'cross 'Uron. Hi went hover hon the Man'attan. 'Ad hit werry serious. We was twenty-three howers going' hacrooss.

F.—Merciful Heavens! how sick I am! a-hoo-o-o-o!

E.—Taint nothin' to what you'll git!

I started with affright and horror. To use one of John Hobbleday's expressive similes, "You could have knocked me down with a feather!" Another severe heave, and another "Oh." and E.—(Phlegmatically.) You'll kip a gittin wuss and wuss; I'ad hit for fifteen howers right straight along.

I inwardly ejaculated, and consciously grew whiter at the same time; Lord have mercy on me!

E.—And hi vomited nearly hall the time.

At this I strained violently I really thought I should have died. But the villainous Britisher seemed to enjoy my agony, and thus continued:

E.—You look has though you'd 'ave hit habout twenty howers!

That finished me. I staggered away from him, and with slow and tottering steps dragged myself to my state room.

The Rope-Boy.

It was one of the first days of spring, when a lady, who had been watching by the sick bed of her mother for some weeks, went out to take a little exercise and enjoy the fresh air. She hoped that she might hear a bird sing, or see some little wild flower which would speak to her of of her future hope, for her heart was full of anxiety and sorrow. After walking some distance, she came to a rope walk. She was familiar with the place, and entered. At one end of the building she saw a little boy turning a large wheel; she thought it too laborious for such a child, and she came near and spoke to him

'Who sent you to this place?' she asked.

'Nobody—I came of myself.'

'Does your father know you are here?'

'I have no father.'

'Are you paid for your labor.'

'Yes; I get ninepence a day.'

'Do you like this work?'

'Well enough; but if I did not I should do it, that I might get the money for my mother.'

'How long do you work in the day?'

'From nine till eleven in the morning, and from two till five in the afternoon.'

'How old are you?'

'Almost nine?'

'Do you ever get tired of turning this great wheel?'

'Yes, sometimes.'

'And what do you do then?'

'I take the other hand.'

The lady gave him a piece of money.

'Is this for my mother?' he asked, looking pleased.

'No, it is for yourself.'

'Thank you, ma'am the boy said, and the lady bade him farewell.

She went home strengthened in her devotion to duty, and instructed in true practical philosophy by the words and example of a little child. 'The next time,' she said to herself, 'that duty seems hard to me, I will remember the child, and take the other hand.'

HOLD ON.—Hold on to your tongue when you are just ready to swear, lie, speak harshly, or say an improper word. Hold on to your hand when you are about to strike, pinch, or scratch, steal or do any disobedient or improper act. Hold on to your feet when you are on the point of kicking, running away from your duty, or pursuing the path of error, shame or crime. Hold on to your temper when you are angry, excited or imposed upon, or others are angry about you. Hold on to your heart when evil associates seek your company and invite you to join them in their games, mirth and revelry. Hold on to your good name at all times, for it is more valuable than gold, high places, of fashionable attire. Hold on to the truth, for it will serve you well and do you good through eternity. Hold on to your virtue, it is above price to you in all times and places. Hold on to your good character, for it is, and ever will be your best wealth.

MELANCHOLY DEATH OF A YOUNG LADY.—It is our painful duty this week to chronicle one of the most melancholy accidents that ever occurred in this place, which resulted in the untimely death of MATILDA CALDWELL, daughter of Judge Caldwell of Gaysport, aged twenty-one years.—The sudden demise of this young lady is another fearful illustration of the frail tenure by which human life is held.

On Wednesday evening last a wedding took place at the Lutheran parsonage in this place, the parties being Mr. TOBIAS WERTZ, residing below town, and Miss MARY C. WAUGH, of Hagerstown, Md. A few minutes previous to the wedding, Miss Caldwell accompanied by another young lady, passed the parsonage on their way to prayer meeting. Mrs. Knight saw Miss Caldwell passing, and being on terms of great intimacy, invited her in to witness the ceremony, and spend the evening. She accepted the invitation, and they had a pleasant and agreeable time until 11 o'clock, when the party broke up. Several vehicles were in attendance to convey to their homes the friends of the parties who lived at a distance, and it was agreed that a young man named Wertz—a brother to the bridegroom—should take Miss Caldwell to her home in a buggy. Some noise at the Court House, made by boys, caused the horse to become frightened, but Mr. Wertz reined him up. The gas light at the Logan House again scared the animal, but before reaching the bridge. Mr. W. had succeeded in quieting him. When near Confer's tavern, in Gaysport, some person came out of a house with a lantern; the glare of which scared the horse a third time, and he became unmanageable. While drawing the reins tight, the right one broke, and the young man still holding on to the left, caused the horse to make a circle, when Mr. Wertz jumped out, and was just on the point of grasping the reins of the bridle when Miss. C. screamed, the horse took a fresh fright, and started down the turnpike. He had scarcely run thirty yards before Miss C. as is generally supposed, attempted to jump out, but fell, striking her head on the hard ground. She was immediately removed to her home, and Drs. Landis and Coffey called, who rendered every aid in their power, but she died in three hours after the accident. Of course no one was to blame for this unfortunate occurrence, as it was clearly one of those for which no human agency can be held responsible.

The sudden death of Miss Caldwell cast a deep gloom over the entire community, caused not only by the nature of the death, but because she was lovely, amiable, and enjoyed the confidence and esteem of a large circle of friends and acquaintances. How forcibly does her death remind us of the poets lines,

> "Early, bright, transient,
> Chaste as morning dew,
> She sparkled, was exhaled,
> And went to Heaven."

At the time of the accident, Judge Caldwell was absent in Centre county, and did not hear anything of it until he reached Tyrone. One can readily imagine the sorrow of a fond doting parent, leaving a daughter in the bloom of youth and beauty, returning and finding her in the habiliments of the grave, cut off without even the privilege of a tender farewell to him who comes nearest of all on earth to her. When we reflect on the sad end of one so young and so beloved, cut off in the bright May morning of life we realize in its fullest force by what a brittle thread human life is held—

> "Leaves have their time to fade,
> And flowers to wither in the north wind's breath,
> And stars to set, but all,
> Thou hast all seasons for thine own, O death!"

Her funeral took place on Friday afternoon, and her remains were attended to the Presbyterian Graveyard by a large courtege of sorrowing friends.

On Sabbath last, Dr. Junkin preached the funeral sermon, and the Presbyterian Church was filled with people. He alluded specially to the deceased several times, and on one occasion called the attention of the congregation to the fact that not a note had been sounded on the Harmonium—that the fingers which touched it to the praise of Jehova on Sunday last were now cold in death.

The community sympathizes deeply with the grief-stricken parents, who have indeed lost the flower of their flock. Time may assuage their sorrow, but years will not suffice to efface her image engraven on the tablets of their memory until time with them shall be no more.

"Long, long be their hearts with such memories filled!
Like the vase in which roses has once been distilled,
You may break, you may ruin the vase, if you will,
But the scent of the roses will hang round it still."
—Whig.

A BEAUTIFUL SIGHT.—A few evenings since we were called in to view a number of articles, on exhibition at the store room of Mrs. McMullen, at the "Cheap Corner," which are to be placed in the Bazar now being got up by the ladies of St. John's Church in this place, for the purpose of obtaining means to complete the erection of the parsonage for their pastor.—The first objects that attracted our attention were two gold watches of the finest quality—one a lady's and the other a gentleman's. Next came a silver service, consisting of six pieces, elaborately carved and finished in the very best style. Next we noticed a beautiful bible and prayer-book, gotten up in a style unequalled by any we have heretofore seen. There was numerous othes articles, which we have not room to notice. The above goods are to be disposed of by tickets, the price ranging from 10 cents up to $1, according to the value of the article. A number of beautiful quilt patterns, are also on exhibition and are worth going to see. Call in ladies and gentlemen, and view the articles even if you don't buy chances.

THEFT.—On last Sunday-a-week the house of Mr. Newton, in Frankstown township, was entered while the family were at Camp Meeting, and some $10 or $12 in money stolen therefrom. A couple of young men, named Thompson and Conroy, belonging to the neighborhood, were arrested a day or two after on a charge of perpetrating the offence, and Thompson was committed for trial, but Conroy turned up missing at the Justice's office and not since been taken. Thompson has since been admitted to bail.—Register.

MASONIC PICNIC.—Agreeable to previous arrangement, the picnic of the Masonic Fraternity came off in Beale's Wood's on Friday last.—The morning was rather unfavorable and the idea of repairing to the grove had almost been given up, when about ten o'clock "Old Sol" burst through the watery vapors that had before shut out his light, reviving the spirits of the party, and as the cars were in readiness they were soon on their way to the grove. We learn from those in attendance that everything passed off pleasantly and in order, indeed there could be nothing else than mirth and pleasure and proper decorum where such spirits as those who led the excrcises of the day are in attendance. Although not one of the party, nevertheless we shared bountifully in the good things provided for the occasion, for which the donors will please accept our thanks. A number of ladies and gentlemen from a distance were in attendance, and we warrant that they cons d r the day spent in the grove one the most pleasant in their lives, and our people the most agreeable they have ever met.

ROBBERY.—On Friday night last, some villain or villain's entered the back room attached to our office, the door of which did not happen to be locked, and forcing open the back door of Mr. Jacob Nichols Green Grocery, abstracted therefrom a couple of bushels of sweet potatoes and a number of water melons. There had been no money left in the drawer of the grocery, consequently they had to carry off the potatoes to pay for their trouble. We could not find that anything had been disturbed or carried away from our department, with the exception of about a dozen of Dr. Young's Pocket Æsculapius, to which the thieves are welcome, as we have no doubt they and their friends stand in need of the advice contained therein. A snuff-box was found among the sweet potatoes, on the morning after the transaction, which the owner can have by calling on Mr. Nichols, and if he don't choose to call for it, it is more than likely that Constable Ely will be deputized to carry it to him.

FIRE AT DUNCANSVILLE.—On Tuesday morning of last week a fire broke out in the double frame dwelling of Mr. Daniel Beatty, in Duncansville. It was first discovered by Mr. Beatty and his brother-in-law, who were sleeping together, at which time there was nothing but the lath and plastering between their bed and the flames, and in less than a minute from the time they were awakened the bed on which they had been sleeping was on fire. From this house the flames communicated to the house of Mr. Christ Kephart. All efforts to save the buildings proved unavailing. Both buildings, together with the greater part of the furniture, &c., of Mr. Beatty and a portion of that of Mr. Kephart, were consumed. The loss is estimated at $2,000 which is mostly covered by insurance. How the fire originated is a mystery.—The report that it started from some coals about a bake-oven attached to Mr. Beatty's house is incorrect. There was no fire in the oven on the day previous, nor has there been for years

SOMETHING NEW, NOVEL AND COMFORTABLE.—On Friday morning last, we noticed an extra car attached to the Express Train Westward.—Curiosity led us to inspect it, when we found it to be one furnished with Woodruff's patent seats and couches. They are constructed in such a manner that the seats can be quickly converted into comfortable sleeping couches, capable of accommodating about fifty persons. These couches are just the thing for night and through travelling, and the "sleeping car" will certainly become one of the "institutions" of the Pa. R. R. The car is run by Mr. Woodruff himself, the Company granting him permission, and passengers can have the benefit of it by paying him fifty cents in addition to the regular fare. Should the Company adopt them, however the extra charge we presume would be thrown off.

LIBRARY ASSOCIATION.—The "Altoona Mechanics Library Association" which met at the Library room on Tuesday evening last, elected the following officers for the ensuing year:—

President—Thos. Burchnell,
Vice President—Rev. A. B. Clark
Secretary—Benj. F Rose,
Treasurer—David T. Caldwell,
Librarian—Chas. V. B. Kennedy.
Directors—Thos. P. Sargent, Christ. R. Hostetter, Chas R. McCrea, Louis C. Brastow, John Shoemaker, Dr. . DR. Good, Clement Jaggard,

We shall speak more at length in reference to the above Association in our next issue.

STATE AGRICULTURAL FAIR.—The State Agricultural Fair opens at Pittsburg on the 28th inst. Excursion Tickets will be issued from all stations on the Pennsylvania Railroad, good from the 27th of September until the 2d of October. Articles intended for exhibition at the Fair will be returned from the Fair free of charge, on presentation to the Agent at Pittsburg of the Company's receipt, showing that full toll sheet rates were paid in shipping them to that place, and that a release had been given exhonerating the Company from any loss or damage that might be sustained in transportation or while in the cars or at the depots of the Company.

I. O. R. M.

The members of Winebago Tribe will meet at their Wigwam, at 8 o'clock on Saturday morning next, in full regalia. The ladies will assemble at 10 o'clock A. M., at the Masonic Temple.

The procession will be formed in front of the Masonic Temple, at 9½ o'clock, and after marching through the principal streets, will return to the Temple and rest for 15 minutes. The procession will be re-formed with the ladies in front and march directly to Hagerty's woods.

E. C. Allen, of Susquehannah Tribe, No. 12, and Wm. M. Allison of Winebago Tribe, No. 35, will deliver addresses.

GATES CURED.—The Superintendent of the Insane Asylum, at Harrisburg, has certified that Joseph Gates recently sent to that institution by the Court of Quarter Sessions of this county, is no longer insane, and the Court has ordered his discharge. He is the individual who attempted to set fire to the jail in Hollidaysburg while incarcerated therein.

MINER HURT.—Narrow Escape from Death.—On Friday last a man named McCartney, engaged as a minor in Condron's Ore Bank near this place, applied a match to the priming of a blast he sought to discharge, expecting to get out of harm's way before the explosion, but the powder was too quick for him, and he was laid over with his face full of particles of slate &c., and so seriously injured that he thought he was killed! His escape from instant death was certainly surprising, for the accident occurred in a narrow drift of the mine, and the blast raised some two tons of ore.—Register.

A SURPRISE PARTY.—On Saturday afternoon last, some fifty or sixty young ladies and gentlemen of this place, received written invitations to a social party. When all were rejoicing in the prospect of happy time, their fond anticipations were suddenly blighted by the information that the persons whose names composed the committee of invitation, and also those at the place to which they were invited, knew nothing about the party. After considerable discussion it was generally agreed that the whole affair was a "sell."

☞ In our last issue we gave notice of the commencement of a writing school under the charge of Mr Clowes. We are glad to hear that he has quite a large class of ladies and gentlemen. We are informed that he intends remaining for some time and will shortly commence another course of lessons. We think his style and system is only equalled by the very best penmen in the country. We wish him success, and feel sure that time and money is well spent in attending his school.

LEAD ORE.—A few days since we were presented with a specimen of lead ore from the mine recently opened in Sinking Valley, in this county, which was noticed some time since by one of our correspondents. The ore appears to us to be remarkably pure and of the best quality, and is said to be very abundant. With the ore is also taken out a substance supposed to be quartz, which it considered valuable.

☞ Bayard Taylor's last letter to the Tribune contains the following:

"What more interested me than the speed of the horses, was the beauty of the Polish women of the better classes. During two years in Europe, I have not seen so great a number of handsome faces as I saw in an hour yesterday. It would be difficult to furnish a larger portion from the acknowledged loveliness of Philadelphia, Baltimore, or Louisville. I heard of an American marrying a Polish lady at Dresden, the other day, and I must commend his taste.—These maids of Warsaw are not only radient blonds, who se eyes and hair remind you of corn flowers among ripe grain, but also dark-eyed br.ct es, with faces of a full Southern oval, lips roun l and delicate as those of an Amorette, and a pure golden transparency of complexion.—The connoisseur of womans beauty can nowhere better compare those rival styles, nor have so great a difficulty in deciding between them.

Wandering along the streets with throats full of dust, we were attracted to the sign of a Bavarian beer shop. The proprietor soon learned that we were strangers. He was very desirous of importing a negro girl from America for a bar-maid. "I should have all the nobility of the city here," said he. "She would be a great curiosity. There is that woman Pastrana; with the hair all over her face—she made a great fortune, they say. There are not many of the kind, and if I could get one quite black, with a woolly-head, I should make more money in a day, than I now do in a month." He wished to engage me to send him such an attraction, but I respectfully declined.

Paper Currency.

An article calling attention to some of the many frauds and deceptions in a public currency, thus refers to a very prominent one:

The Pennsylvanian, in a well written article, calling attention to one of the many frauds and deceptions, in a paper currency, says: "The changing of notes from a lower denomination into a higher, is so frequently practiced, and the prevention of this sort of forgery so very easy and simple, that the wonder only is that, to this day, no steps have been taken to put an effectual stop to it. If the banks of all the States were to agree upon a certain size for one dollar notes, enlarging the size of two dollar notes a little only, say one quarter of an inch, which would be quite enough to distingush between them at first sight, and without even examining the face, and increasing in the same manner the dimensions of the threes, fives, tens, etc., the particular forgery alluded to would be rendered wholly impracticable. It could not fail to be discovered, at the very first attempt at issuing altered notes, however perfect the alteration itself." This is all very well, but does not our neighbor think a more direct and efficacious policy would be to do away altogether with bills of less denomination than ten or twenty dollars, and makes his detective policy apply to bills of twenties, fifties and hundreds?

THE PANIC—MORE FAILURES.—The panic in New York seems to be on the increase. In this city everything goes on smoothly, and the only failures we have heard of were the failures to furnish good fits made by some inferior clothing establishments. There is no such difficulty to be encountered by those who patronize the Brown Stone Clothing Hall of Rockhill & Wilson, Nos. 603 and 605 Chestnut street, above sixth. Gentlemen and Youths never fail to procure capital fits at this popular establishment.

THE BEST COUGH MEDICINE.—One of the very best Cough Medicines to be found anywhere, is Dr. Keyser's Pectoral Syrup, sold by G. W. Kessler, at 50 cents per bottle.

MORE TESTIMONY.

ALTOONA, July 3, 1858.

J. D. STONEROAD,—Dear Sir;—Mr. Wm. Turnbaugh, who has been suffering several years from Rheumatism, was so ill that his friends and relatives were summoned to witness his death. I then advised his friends to try the virtue of your preparation, and they did so, as a last resort; and to their astonishment and joy, he began to improve, got better and better, and now, so far as I know, he is a hale and stout man. This is not the only case where the Galvanic Oil has surpassed human expectations. In every case where I have recommended the Oil, it has done what it promises to do. Send us another $20's worth. Yours truly,

Sept. 2, 1858-1y.] HENRY LEHR.

SUFFERING HUMANITY, READ THIS.

—The undersigned takes this method of informing the public generally that there is no medicine now offered to the public that is equal to DU VALL'S GALVANIC OIL in relieving suffering humanity.

I was an observer of its effects on a friend of mine, who suffered almost everything from a neuralgic affection which resisted the best medical treatment in Centre county. We applied freely the Galvanic Oil to the painful part, and gave some inwardly, and in 20 minutes the patient was asleep, and when awakened was free from pain and continued so. This is a positive fact which I am willing to make good at any time. A case of Felon was cured in nearly the same length of time. J. H. HAHN.

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN.—VOLUME FOURTEENTH begins September 11, 1858.

MECHANICS, INVENTORS, MANUFACTURERS AND FARMERS.

The Scientific American has now reached its Fourteenth Year, and will enter upon a New Volume on the 11th of September. It is the only weekly publication of the kind now issued in this country, and it has a very extensive circulation in all the States of the Union. It is not, as some might suppose from its title, a dry, statruse work on technical science, on the contrary, it so deals with the great events going on in the scientific, mechanical and industrial works of to please and instruct every one. If the Mechanic or Artizan wishes to know the best machine in use, or how to make any substance employed in his business—if the Housewife wishes to get a recipe for making a good color, &c.—if the Inventor wishes to know what is going on in the way of improvements—if the Manufacturer wishes to keep posted with the times, and to employ the best facilities in his business—if the man of leisure and study wishes to keep himself familiar with the progress made in the chemical laboratory, or in the construction of telegraphs, steamships, railroads, reapers, mowers, and a thousand other machines and appliances, both of peace and war—all these desiderata can be found in the Scientific American, and not elsewhere. They are here presented in a reliable and interesting form, adapted to the comprehension of minds unlearned in the higher branches of science and art.

THE LIVER INVIGORATOR

PREPARED BY DR. SANFORD;

COMPOUNDED ENTIRELY FROM GUMS,

is one of the best Purgative and Liver Medicines now before the public, that acts as a Cathartic, easier, milder, and more effectual than any other medicine known. It is not only a Cathartic, but a Liver remedy, acting first on the Liver to eject its morbid matter, then on the stomach and bowels to carry off that matter, thus accomplishing two purposes effectually, without any of the painful feelings experienced in the operations of most Cathartics. It strengthens the system at the same time that it purges it; and when taken daily in moderate doses, will strengthen and build it up with unusual rapidity.

The LIVER is one of the principal regulators of the human body; and when it performs its functions well, are fully developed. The dependent on the healthy proper performance of its such is at fault, the bowels action of the Liver for the functions; when the stomach are at fault, and the whole system suffers in consequence of one organ—the LIVER—having ceased to do its duty. For the diseases of that organ, one of the proprietors has made it his study, in a practice of more than twenty years, to find some remedy wherewith to counteract the many derangements to which it is liable.

To prove that this remedy is at last found, any person troubled with LIVER COMPLAINT, in any of its forms, has but to try a bottle, and conviction is certain.

These Gums remove all morbid or bad matter from the system, supplying in their place a healthy flow of bile, invigorating the stomach, causing food to digest well. PURIFYING THE BLOOD, giving tone and health to the whole machinery, removing the cause of the disease—effecting a radical cure.

BILIOUS ATTACKS ARE PREVENTED, AND, WHAT IS BETTER, by the occasional use of the LIVER INVIGORATOR.

One dose after eating is sufficient to relieve the stomach and prevent the food from rising and souring.

Only one dose taken before retiring, prevents Nightmare.

Only one dose taken at night, loosens the bowels gently, and cures Costiveness.

One dose taken after each meal will cure Dyspepsia.

☞ One dose of two teaspoonsful will always relieve SICK HEADACHE.

One bottle taken for female obstruction removes the cause of the disease, and makes a perfect cure.

Only one dose immediately relieves Cholic, while Only one dose often repeated is a sure cure for CHOLERA Morbus, and a preventive of CHOLERA.

☞ Only one bottle is needed to throw out of the system the effects of medicine after a long sickness.

☞ One bottle taken for JAUNDICE removes all sallowness or unnatural color from the skin.

One dose taken a short time before eating gives vigor to the appetite, and makes the food digest well.

One dose often repeated cures Chronic Diarrhœa in its worst forms, while Summer and Bowel complaints yield almost to the first dose.

One or two doses cures attacks caused by WORMS in children: there is no surer, safer, or speedier remedy in the world, as it never fails.

A few bottles cures Dropsy by exciting the absorbents to counteract the many deranguements to which it is liable.

We take pleasure in recommending the medicine as a preventive for Fever and Ague, Chill Fever, and all Fevers of a Bilious type, and it operates with certainty, and thousands are willing to testify to its wonderful virtues.

All who use it are giving their unanimous testimony in its favor.

☞ Mix Water in the mouth with the Invigorator, and swallow both together.

THE LIVER INVIGORATOR

IS A SCIENTIFIC MEDICAL DISCOVERY, and is daily working cures, almost too great to believe. It cures as if by magic, even the first dose gives relief, and seldom more than one bottle is required to cure any kind of Liver Complaint, from the worst Jaundice or Dyspepsia to a common Headache, all of which are the result of a DISEASED LIVER.

PRICE ONE DOLLAR PER BOTTLE.

HAMMONTON LANDS NEW ENGLAND SETTLEMENT.—RARE OPPORTUNITY.

20 All Seeing Farms in a healthy place, twenty-five miles from Philadelphia, on the Camden and Atlantic railroad, New Jersey. An old estate has recently been opened for sale, and the first division of 10,000 acres divided up into farms of twenty acres and upwards. The soil is of the best quality for the production of fruits, grains, &c. The price is $15 to $20 per acre, payable in easy quarter yearly instalments, within a term of four years, with interest. The terms are made easy, in order to insure the rapid improvement of the land, by enabling *every industrious man to buy a farm. It is now being extensively improved by good roads, and some of the best citizens from New England and the Middle States are erecting large improvements. It is a scene of the greatest improvement out of Philadelphia.—Seventy-five houses have been built in four months. Practical farmers and business men from the length and breadth of the Union are settling there. It is an important business place, on account of its being in the midst of a great market. Every article raised upon this land finds an immediate sale. The water is excellent, and no such thing as fever is known.

The soil is a sandy or clay loam, with a clay bottom and retentive of manures. It is free of stones and easily worked. It abounds largely in the phosphates, and such is its fertility that from the crops produced both upon this land and the large area adjoining under cultivation, it will be found not to be excelled anywhere in the production of crops most adapted to its market.

The reader may be well aware that the earliest and the best fruits and vegetables come from New Jersey, which are annually exported to the amount, of millions of dollars. The land, besides being accessible in every way for fertilizers, has an abundant supply of the best quality of muck manure.

Lumber and building materials can be had on the spot at a cheap price, from the mills. Other mills are now being opened, and brickyards being started on the ground. A person can put up a frame tenement for present convenience for one hundred dollars. On account of the extensive emigration, this is the best course to pursue in order to get a place to live in at first. Carpenters and builders are on hand to put up houses on the best terms.

In settling here the emigrant has many advantages. He is within a few hours' ride of the great cities of the Middle States and New England; he is near his old friends and associations; he is in a settled country, where every improvement and comfort of civilization is at hand; he is in a healthy place, and is not subject to the certainty of losing the greater part of his family and his own health by those malignant fevers which make the graves of so many millions of the young and and lastly in the far off regions away from home and friends. Besides, he has a mild climate and an open winter.

There are three trains daily to Philadelphia, and to all those who improve the railroad company gives a free ticket.

The reader will at once be struck with the advantages here presented, and ask himself why the property has not been taken up before. The reason is, it was never thrown in the market; and unless these statements were correct no one would be invited to examine the land before purchasing. This all are expected to do. They will see the land under cultivation; they will meet persons, no doubt, from their own neighborhood; they will witness the improvements, and can judge of the character of the population. Persons should come prepared to purchase, as many are locating, and locations are not held on refusal.

The Hammonton Farmer, a monthly Literary and Agricultural sheet, containing full information of Hammonton will be sent to each enquirer, and can be obtained at 25 cts per annum.

Title indisputable. Warrantee deeds given, clear of all incumbrance, when purchase money is paid. Route to the land:—Leave Vine street wharf, Philadelphia, for Hammonton, by railroad, at 7½ A. M., and 5½ P. M.; when there inquire for Mr. Byrnes. Boarding conveniences will be found. Letters and applications can be addressed to S. B. COGHLIN, 202 South FIFTH Street, below Walnut, Philadelphia. Maps and information cheerfully furnished.

GREAT IMPROVEMENT IN COOKING STOVES.

CONSUMPTION OF SMOKE AND GAS AND SAVING OF FUEL.

The subscriber takes pleasure in offering to the public a NEW GAS AND SMOKE CONSUMING Cooking Stove, recently patented, which is destined to supercede all others, as it requires than other stoves and is more easily, quickly and regularly heated. No unpleasant smell of gas arises from this stove from the fact that it is all consumed ere it can escape. There is no trouble from smoke as that unpleasant and often annoying exhalation is also consumed inside of the stove. Neither is there any danger of flues or chimneys becoming clogged with soot or the mortar loosened by the gas arising from coal fires.

ONE-THIRD LESS FUEL

Persons wishing to purchase stoves are invited to call at the store of the subscriber, in the Masonic Temple, and examine the above stoves.

GREAT DISCOVERY OF THE AGE

IMPORTANT TO

TOBACCO CHEWERS.

DR. GUSTAV LINNARD'S TASTE RESTORATIVE TROCHES, the great Substitute for Tobacco.

It is a well known and incontrovertable fact that the use of Tobacco is the promoting cause of many of the most severe to which the race of man is subject, as careful analysis and long and painful experience have clearly proven that it contains certain noreotic and poisonous properties most dangerous in their effects, which by entering into the blood derange the functions and operations of the heart, causing many to suppose that organ to be seriously diseased.

MENTAL AND PHYSICAL DISORDERS

TOBACCO affects also the entire nervous system, manifesting itself—as all who have ever used the noxious weed testing itself—as all who have ever used the noxious weed will bear testimony—in Lassitude, Nervous Irritability, Water Brash, Dyspepsia, and many other disorders of a similar character.

THE TASTE RESTORATIVE TROCHES

Are designed to counteract these baneful influences, and have proved completely successful in a multitude of cases, and wherever used. Being harmless in themselves they exert a beneficial effect upon the entire system, restoring the Taste which has become vitiated or destroyed by great indulgence, completely removing the irritation and accompanying tickling sensation of the Throat—which are always consequent upon abstaining from the use of Tobacco, and by giving a healthy tone to the Stomach, invigorate the whole system.

Persons who are irretrievably undermining their constitutions and shortening their lives, should use these Troches immediately and throw off the injurious and and unpleasant habit of Tobacco Chewing.

These Troches of Lozenges are put up in a convenient and portable form at the low price of 50 Cents per Box. A liberal discount to the Trade.

Prepared solely by the undersigned to whom all orders should be addressed.
